

Editor's Letter

he magazine "Who I Am" is about a student who goes to SLA.

His name is Aaron VanBuren. He said "I am an average person who like's football and school but doesn't like spicy food". That's why you should read this magazine. The magazine talks about three topics in Aaron's life.

The first topic is "Madness, Movement and Motion" is about my joyous passion for dancing. The second topic is "Being who you want to be" is about me having a skill to act. The third and final topic is the "The Ultimate Motive". The Ultimate motive is about what I want to do when I get older and what I want as a family. Thank you readers for reading my editor's letter and magazine.

Madness, Movement and Motion

Walking on the floor, all I hear is music. I don't see anybody's face, just me alone making up moves as I accelerate with the beat. The crazy thing is that I am at a party dancing. Now standing here in a tunnel of blurriness, I imagine dance moves in my head. Hearing people scream saying he is scared and he is a awful dancer, so I took off my comfort jacket and let loose.

Stopping people from leaving the party and turning heads, people start to love me. Now I hear people screaming he is so awesome, amazing and nowhere near an atrocious dancer. They love me, now I feel like royalty or a famous person and his fans. Talking and walking with my friends people stop me saying I am one of the best dancers they have seen. They also say we love how you pop, lock and jam all in the one move.

So by reading what I have wrote so far you have to know I truly have a passion for dancing. I can describe myself as a off the top dancer (freestyle). That is somebody who can make up different moves with different types of music at anytime. The way I dance is by the music that is on. There are so many types of music. For example, pop, hip hop, jazz, funk, punk and I can go on and on. Dance makes me who I am because I love the way I can move in different ways.

Being who I want to be

The feeling of you strengthening your character, the emotion you feel when the audience claps, laugh and is giving you a standing ovation. When they also feel the power of you on that stage. Thoughts going through your head and butterflies in your stomach trying to become the perfect character. Going for the Golden Globe or Emmy's awards. The passion I have for acting is truly like no other.

Acting is like a part of me, in fact I wanted to fine an agency in December. So that I can act and have fun but also get paid. When I am on stage I fall into another world. The reason is because I can be creative in so many ways. Being creative on stage has different meanings such as dancing, singing and acting.

In my eight grade year I was in the play High School Musical. I was chosen to be Chad Danforth. The actor who played this character was Corbin Bleu. But before that play I was in another play call The Wiz. Me personally I have seen a couple of plays but I have seen only one opera. Acting makes me who I am because you can become who or whatever you want.

The Ultimate Motive

One day I am going to go undercover. My team and I will stop a lot of drugs that come into the U.S. That reason is because I want to work for the DEA. That is the Drug Enforcement Agency. They seize drugs, guns and arrest the people who are involved in that type of lifestyle. Or either I will stop terrorist and try to find the answer to how the U.S. can stop bombers. The reason for that is because I want to work for the NSA. The NSA is the National Security Agency. They protect the U.S. in many different ways. Such as homeland and technology/technical security.

Jian,

Even when working for the DEA or the NSA I want to have a family. I want to have a wife to come home to. Have my kids doing homework and playing video games waiting for me to come home. I just want to give my family everything they need and at least everything they want. I don't need a white picket fence just a house to come home to. The future to me is important because I want so many things in my life, so I have to do my best now.
